Honorary Degree Nominations

The University of Alberta Senate welcomes the nomination of inspiring individuals for honorary degrees. An honorary degree is the University of Alberta’s highest honour.

The following pages outline the nomination process and the eight key components of an honorary degree nomination.

The vision of the University of Alberta is to inspire the human spirit through outstanding achievements in learning, discovery and citizenship in a creative community, building one of the world’s great universities for the public good. This vision will be reflected in the individuals who receive honorary degrees from the University.

Honorary degrees are intended to honour individuals whose extraordinary intellectual or artistic achievements or significant service to society set a standard of excellence and merit the University’s highest honour. In accepting an honorary degree, the recipient also honours the spirit of the University.

The University celebrates inspiring role models and transformative legacies in all fields of endeavour.

- Leading academics in all disciplines and creative minds in arts and performance
- Public intellectuals and opinion-makers
- Visionary leaders and exemplary public figures
- Community builders and philanthropists

Honorary degrees are conferred honoris causa, “for the sake of honour,” and are awarded as one of three types: Doctor of Laws, honoris causa; Doctor of Letters, honoris causa; and Doctor of Science, honoris causa.

CRITERIA

By awarding honorary degrees, the University of Alberta seeks to recognize extraordinary achievement or outstanding service in our community, in Canada or internationally. The University seeks to honour those individuals whose accomplishments, leadership and service will inspire our graduates.

The Senate Honorary Degrees Selection Committee welcomes nominations of exceptional individuals in a broad range of categories: scholarship, the arts, public service, business, athletics, health services, national or international leadership, professional and voluntary service in the community at large, and exemplary service of long-standing and unusual merit to the University.

In approving candidates for honorary degrees, the Committee strives for diversity of backgrounds, disciplines and spheres of contribution. The Committee seeks those whose merit is extraordinary and not merely impressive.

Nominations are not awarded posthumously and generally not to any of the following: current faculty or staff; current members of the Board of Governors and the Senate; and current holders of political office in Canada. At the University of Alberta it is a requirement that honorary degree recipients attend Convocation for the conferral of their degrees.
